

quillies into reality.

Expand our love today. O God, transcend our selfishness. Help us to rise above our hatred, our vindictiveness, our prejudice, and our prorogality. If any of us have brought hate into this house today, may we find it flowing from us because thy love has been shed abroad in our hearts.

We lay before thee the deep, unspoken needs that have been brought into this sanctuary. Go thou into the hidden corners of our hearts. If unspoken sins are there, grant us true penitence that thou mayest pardon them. If there are weaknesses there which, unknown to us, may yet cause our downfall, give us knowledge of them that we, being made strong where we are weak and given power where we are frail, may come off more than conquerors. So, not accord-to our merits, but according to the riches of thy will and wisdom, minister to us this day in the deep places of our hearts -

Do it in the name of Christ...
